- Overdraft Account (KMH): KMH is an account which is designated by the Bank with the purpose to realize your payments such as credit card, consumer credits like personal finance credit/housing loan etc. invoices, direct debit mandates, cheque payments or to realize similar transaction or in order to meet directly your need for cash of which the credit limit can be in deficit balance which is designated under a drawing account in Turkish Lira and for which interest is accrued monthly. The calculation of the interest is executed during the days you use credit (where the account is in deficit balance) and the interest is accrued at the end of the month. The Banking and Insurance Transaction Tax (BSMV) and Resource Utilization Support Fund (KKDF) of the interest are collected directly from all of your accounts including KMH. Calculation of day in deficit balance is executed by applying effective date in a manner to include days including the day where you get in deficit balance and the next day of depositing money to the drawing account under which your overdraft account has been designated All balance amount sent to/deposited to the demand deposit account that is linked to your Overdraft account, shall be deducted at the end of the day from the remaining Overdraft debt after all the payments such as automatic or regular payment orders that have been ordered by you previously, loan payments or etc. are collected during the day. As an order of priority in the debt collection, first the minimum Overdraft payment amount and its related taxes shall be collected, and later the remaining balance will be collected for the principal payment amount of your Overdraft. Your KMH limit has been allocated under the Contract of Banking Transactions that you had previously signed.
- Provider: The name, the address, the e-mail address, the phone number and the other contact information of our Bank as well as MERSIS numbers are given below.
- KMH Limits and its Amendments: Your KMH limit is determined in consequences of assessment of your application and is notified in written or via permanent data register. Amendments concerning your limit (increase or decrease) are made upon your demand. The Bank notify the new limit through the permanent date register or through other channels in

Notice & Statement Regarding Loan Utilization Purpose:

If my overdraft account application is accepted, I accept, declare and commit that;

- I have been informed by the bank officials that I will not use my overdraft (KMH) limit allocated to me for any investment purpose to earn any financial return via foreign exchange, gold, precious metal (silver, platinum etc.) transactions, crypto asset purchases, stock purchases, repo and for closing other undue credit risks at banks and at non-bank financial institutions, for transactions to remove money out of the registered banking capital market system other than daily needs,
- If I carry out such a transaction, it will constitute a violation of the purpose of credit use,
- I will submit all kinds of information and documents to the Bank regarding the detection and follow-up of conformity for the initial utilization purpose of loan upon request.
